

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Eric L. Richards, President & CEO

Hello friends of Cancer Support Community!

I write this note today sitting in front of my computer at the Paulsen Family Center on the northwest side of Indianapolis. For nearly 9 weeks now, I've done the same, day after day, alone. It is such a strange feeling not to have our wonderful professional staff on premises and even stranger not to have our community of cancer survivors and their families walking our halls. In short, it is a bit isolating for a person like me who thrives on interactions with people.

Throughout this "Covid-19 era," social isolation has become a very real thing for millions as stay-at-home orders have become common place. We are all adapting to new ways of life. From learning how to communicate in a meaningful way with family and friends, to working from home, to e-learning with the kids, it has been a real adjustment.

For many cancer patients, social isolation was a very real concern even before the pandemic. Now, people facing this diagnosis are unable to physically access places like Cancer Support Community to be around those who are experiencing the same trials and tribulations they are. That is why our organization has created a completely virtual world. One that provides survivors and their family members opportunities to participate in (FREE as always!) individual counseling, support groups, yoga classes, educational programming and cooking classes to name a few. We are even in the infant stages of getting materials for classes physically in the hands of those who want/need them via mail/delivery and starting a fund that will provide mini financial grants to those who qualify to help pay for everyday necessities.

We feel these pivots are critical so that social isolation can be kept at a minimum, that people facing cancer can still be around those they lean on, so that we can contribute some sense of normalcy in a chaotic world. Now, more than ever, we want to thank all those listed in this edition of The Companion. It is because of your generosity that Cancer Support Community can help ensure that no one faces cancer alone. 2020 (and beyond) will certainly look differently than the year in review here. However, the community's generosity will prevail, and we will continue to serve those in need. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for allowing us the opportunity to serve.

Sincerely,

Eric Richards
President & CEO
